The People's Platform should be taken as a challenge by the new media that have long claimed to be improving on the old order.” — Tim Wu, The New York Times Book Review “Taylor is the Marshall McLuhan or the Neil Postman of our new digital economy, the lonely voice raising urgent questions we need to answer together . . .

The People's Platform | Astra Taylor | Macmillan

In her new book, The People's Platform, Astra Taylor, a cultural critic and the director of the documentaries Zizek! and Examined Life, challenges the notion that the Internet has brought us into an age of cultural democracy. While some have hailed the medium as a platform for diverse voices and the free exchange of information and ideas, Taylor shows that these assumptions are suspect at best.
